SALE OF NEAR BEERS TO BE CONFINED TO LICENSE HOLDERS

Ban Will Go Into Effect on the First Day of November

MANY COMPLAINTS RECEIVED

The sale of near beers in Washington county will be restricted and confined to regular license holders beginning with the first of November, 1919 This word has gone out from the district attorney's office at Washington and all those who have been selling malt and brewed liquors, unless they hold a license, even though they be not intoxicating, will have to cease on the date above mentioned

Under the Brooks law of the State no malt or brewed liquors are allowed to be sold, except by license duly granted by the several courts of the commonwealth. The question, it is understood, as to whether they are intoxicating or not, does not enter into the matteer. Any brewed or malt liquor cannot, it isunderstood, be sold without a retail license.

Complaints have reached the court and the district attorney that near beers, which are brewed, and malt liquors are being sold without restraint all over the county. Restaurants, s tores and other places are known to be handling these drinks, and have been since the first of July. In some sections of the county they become more or less of a nuisance, and that minors, small boys in knee pants are being served as well as their older brothers.

District Attorney Baum takes some of the responsibility for the general sale of near beers. Following the ban in intoxicating liquors on the first day of July he was consulted regarding the sale of the drinks. Knowing the stuff was non-intoxicating, and not realizing its sale would become so extensive, he gave it as his opinion that there would be no complaint against it.

However so many complaints have been made, and the sale so extensive practically without any restrictions, it has been deemed wise to put the ban on beginning November 1. The sale of near b eer by licensed hotels m ust be governed by the Brooks license law, just the same as intoxicating liquors.

Mrs. Sarah Robinson

Mrs. Sarah Robinson died on Tuesday, October 14, at 2:30 o'clock at her home 327 Fallowfield avenue, aged 66 years. Funeral services will be held Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, conducted by Rev. Mr. Greenlee, with interment to follow in Maple Creek cemetery. She is survived by one son, Edward Robinson of Wildwood and one daughter, Rebecca of Cleveland.

How does it happen that having a lot of money just naturally seems to make so many of them perpetually grouchy?

ARE CIDER, NEAR BEER AND GINGER INTOXICANTS?

Constable Titus of Donora and the State Police arrested John Tully at West Columbia on Monday evening and took him before Justice Boyd, where he was held in $300 bail for a hearing Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock. The question to be determined just how far John can go in the way of dispensing of jamica ginger, near beer and cider. The charge of illegal liquor selling was made justifies it is likely he will be held to answer at court.

IN FAVOR OF DE VALERO

Charleroi Post Takes Issue With The State Convention

DELEGATES MAKE THEIR REPORT

The delegates to the State Cantonment of the American Legion, Earl Wagner and Edwin Patton, gave an interesting report of the meeting at Harrisburg last evening at the Legion meeting in the Municipal Building.

Resolutions were adopted at the State Convention protesting the long delays by the Bureau of War Risk Insurance before giving wounded soldiers medical treatment and vocational training. Another resolution was adopteed favoring the Swiss plan of Military Training. The Legion also disapproved any participation by the Posts in disputes between capital and labor. It also voted that the Legion should not take sides in political fights. The State Convention also recommended that Emmon DeValera be barred from American cities, upon the grounds that he was a United States citizen and a draft evader.

That the local Post disapproves of some of the Convention resolutions is shown by the following resolution which was adopted at last night's meeting.

"We, the members of the Charleroi Post Number 22 of the American Legion, renewing our devotion to the sheet anchor of our country's liberty as set forth in the Declaration of Independence, adopted at the city of Philadelphia on the fourth day of July, 1776, and as a fitting testimonial to the Nation whose sons and decendents have participated in every struggle from the beginning of this Nation for the liberties of this Nation and other Nations and whereas our hundreds of thousands of soldiers have just returned from the battlefields of Europe where they offered their lives and left thousands of their comrades in foreign graves all for the liberties of small and great Nations, therefore be it resolved, that this Charleroi Post No. 22 go on record as heartily endorsing that the cities of the United States do recognize Emman DeValera as the President of the Irish Republic. Furthermore be it resolved that the delegates to the National Convention be instructed to urge the passage of this resolution at the National Convention. And furthermore be it resolved that a copy be sent to the United States Senators in Pennsylvania and also to Congressman Temple and that copies be given to the Mail and the Pittsburg papers"

The next meeting will be held on Tuesday November 11, 1919

Health Officer Compelled To Assert His Authority

Due to alleged infractions of the quarantine and health laws of the commonwealth, it became necessary for Health Officer Darby to take charge of the store of Paul Diano on Fallowfield avenue for a short time Tuesday evening.

There are the cases of diptheria in the Diano family at the present time and under the new regulations, which are very strict it became necessary for the health officer to maintain arigid quarantine Under these regulations restrictions are placed upon those who are exposed to the disease and acting under this authority the health officer directed that no member of the family who came in contact with the afflicted children should enter the store.

It seems that a son of Diano, who has been exposed to the disease was entering the store and Mr. Diano was notified that he must be kept out. Last evening the boy was found there and the health officer insisted that the regulations be observed, when Diana took issue with him. This caused a disagreement between the two and resulted in the health officer taking charge of the store until the arrival of the Burgess and a policeman, who informed Mr. Diano that the regulations must be observed or he would have to suffer the consequence.

William Zavarello, a traveling salesman from Monongahela, who was also in the store at the time, was informed that he would be reported to Dr. Wood of Monongahela county medical officer, and that he would have to remain in quarantine at his home for a period of five days.

Mr. Diano finally accepted the situation, the boy was directed to keep out of the store and business was resumed as usual.

ASK INVESTIGATION OF GRAPE SHIPMENTS

Monessen authorities have called the attention of the District Attorney of Westmoreland county to the immense quantities of grape that are being shipped into that town, and while it is believed are being used for the purpose of making wine. The county official is asked to make an investigation and to determine what action if any, shall be taken. It is said that not long ago a number of arrests were made in Donora, where grape wine was in process of making. Several carloads have been shipped into Monessen and more are on the way, which leads local authorities to believe that quite a quantity of wine is being made in that town.

GOOD SUCCESS ON HUNTING TRIP

Chas. VanVoorhis returned home Sunday after an extensive hunting trip in Juebec, Canada. Mr. VanVoorhis left here on the 17th of September for Amos, a distance of 1200 miles northeast of Toronto, from where he traveled by river to the hunting grounds. He was accompanied by W. M. Roberts of Pittsburg, and after securing guides at Amos they went by motor boat for 82 miles, and thence by canoe 74 miles to the hunting ground. They found plenty of game, and were able to secure two moose, two bears and one deer. Mr. Roberts secured a moose head with a spread of horns of 54 1-2 inches, while Mr. VanVoorhis secured one with a spread of horns of 49 inches. The heads were sent to Gloversville, N. Y., where they will be mounted. Both of them brought generous portions of moose meat with them, and a number of Mr. VanVoorhis' friends have been favored with choice cuts from the quarter which he brought home. The weather was very stormy while in the woods, rain and s now, with high winds making it very uncomfortablee.

WHISKEY CONFISCATED AT CROATIAN CLUB

Constable Titus and the State Police raided the Croatian Beneficial Society of Donora last night and confiscated a barrel and a half of whiskey and nine barrels of hard cider The President,, Secretary, Treasurer and Steward of the organization were arrested and the Club closed. A charge of illegal liquor selling will likely be lodged against the men arrested

NEW HEALTH REGULATIONS ARE STRICT IN ENFORCING QUARANTINE

FAYETTE CITY AUTO STOLEN THIS MORNING

The garage of Peter Vesley at Fayette City was broken open between midnight and 4 o'clock this morning and his Studebaker seven passenger touring car stolen. The garage was locked, as well as the automobile. The garage was broken into and the machine hauled away with a team of horses. The robbers were traced to the lower end of town and it is believed that the robbers departed in the direction of Belle Vernon.

PREPARE FOR THE CAMPAIGN

Republicans To Be Aggressive In the Coming Battle

FAVOR PURER PRIMARIES

A formal launching of the campaign for the election of the Republican county ticket took place at Washington on Tuesday, at which time the executive committee, together with the candidates met for a conference. All but two of the candidates nominated on the 156th of September were present and much enthusiasm was shown in preparations for an aggressive campaign, which will be waged during the next three weeks.

A. V. Lewis, chairman of the county committee, presided, with H. R. Campbell as secretary. The meeting was held at the Washington Country Club, where luncheon was served, after which a number of short talks were made and committees were named by the chairman to look after various details.

The committee and the candidates also took joint action in a resolution pledging themselves "to use every legitimate effort to place the elections and primaries in the future on a high plane of patriotism where voting will become a patriot's duty and a citizen's privilege."

MORE MEN ARE WORKING AT DONORA

It is reported that additional departments at the Donora mills will be placed in operation during the week, quite a number of additional men having been secured to go to work. The town is very quiet, no arrests having been made due to the strike for several days. It is believed the high point of the strike has been passed in that town and that from now on conditions will be materially improved in the various mills.

Those Exposed to Infectious Diseases To Be Restrained

DISINFECTION MUST FOLLOW

The Board of Health of Charleroi has received from Dr. Edward Martin, State Commissioner of Health, a series of regulations with respect to the placarding, quarantining and disinfecting of premises where communicable diseases have occurred. These regulations are very drastic, and refer to all communicable diseases.

One resolution provides that where persons have been exposed to diptheria, s carlet fever or smallpox, health authorities may, when in their opinion it is necessary, placard and quarantine the premises.

Another section provides that the maximum period of incubation, (between the time of exposure to the disease and the date when the development might be expected) of the disease mentioned below shall be as follows: Acute poliomelitis, (infantile paralysis) 14 days, chicken pox 16 days, German measles 14 days, Measles 14 days, mumps 21 days, scarlet fever 7 days, smallpox 18 days, diptheria 5 days, w hooping cough 14 days, typhoid fever 21 days

The method of disinfection to be used in the communities under quarantine or upon death or removal of a case of infantile paralysis German measles, glanders, measles, mumps, typhoid fever, paratyphoid, and whooping cough disinfectants shall be performed as follows:

The room or rooms occupied by the patient shall be subjected first to a chemical cleansing followed by application of a solution of one to one thousand bichloride of mercury or a solution of two teaspoonfulls of creolin to a gallon of water.

When the health officer established quarantine on a premises for any of the above mentioned diseases, he shall fully i nstruct the householder regarding therequirements to be observed by all persons under quarantine, and shall advise him of the date upon which quarantine may be raised if no further cases develop. He shall direct that when the quarantine period has expired the householder shall proceed to cleanse and disinfect the room or rooms occupied by the patient, according to the circular on sanitary cleaning which the health officer shall furnish to the householder At the termination of the quarantine period he shall remove the placard and terminate quarantine.

WHAT THEY LEARNED

The committee of United States senators which paid a visit to Pittsburg last week and inquired into conditions at Homestead and Clairton as well as other points in and around that city, on their return to Washington were unanimous in the opinion that "Americanization" is one thing needful to better conditions. They found no industrial slavery, said housing conditions were better than they expected to find them, and that the wage question was not a matter of dispute.

Senator Sterling a member of the committee, in reviewing the trip, said "Speaking for myself personally, I had a most interesting trip. In addition to taking the testimony of many witnesses on behalf of both employes and strikers, the members of the committee visited and talked with superintendents and foremen at the several plants, as well as with men at work and men on strike. We saw no signs of disorder anywhere. As a whole, the situation seems to be improving and the reports at all places visited in this district were to the effect that men were gradually returning to work. Some plants, especially those at Homestead, Duquesne and McKeesport are not far from having their normal supply of men at work. It is perhaps significant that the strikers are, for the most part, foreigners, and a very large proportion of foreigners on strike are men who have not been naturalized.

"I think I may with propriety, venture this further statement, namely: That the cause of labor is not being promoted by the action of certain individuals prominent in the present steel industrial strike. William Z. Foster, who evidently is regarded by a great body of strikers as a principal if not the actual leader in the present strike movement, was a few years ago a leader in the notorious I. W. W. In writing to 'Solidarity,' the official organ of that organization in November, 1911, Foster advised that the only way for the I. W. W. to have the workers 'adopt and practice the principles of revolutionary unionism' was to get into the organized labor movement even as 'our French syndicalist fellow workers have so successfully done with theirs.' This letter was signed, 'Yours for revolution, William Z. Foster.'

"In 1913 or 1914, Mr. Foster wrote 'Syndicalism,' which would peacefully or by force if necessary, overthrow our present system of government and later still, he wrote 'Trade Unionism,' or the 'Way to Freedom,' which indirses many of the principles of 'Syndicalism.'

"Mr. Fitzpatrick is another leader in the present movement whose principles are little, if any, less radical than those of Mr. Foster. It is indeed lamentable that in a movement involving so many alien elements, such as Russian, Serbian, Lithuanian, Slovak, the leaders should be men who entertain principles so hostile to American institutions and to representative government.

"Mr. Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, is understood as appearing to defend Messrs. Foster and Fitzpatrick and the movement for which they, more than any one else, seem to be responsible and I think it stands admitted that the extremists have had their way and that, too, through fear they would capture the organization itself, some of the more conservative leaders of organized labor, including Mr. Gompers, bowed to the storm.

"While believing in organization of labor, and that through sane management unions may accomplish a great deal of good for betterment of labor conditions, yet it ought to be understood that in this day the public will not stand for the un-American principles of these radicals, and unless Mr. Gompers, as president of the Federation of Labor, repudiates men like Foster, Fitzpatrick, et al., or declines to be led by them, the public will lose all confidence in him as a safe leader of the forces of labor as well as confidence in the organization for which he stands."

If you can be a politician without being a hypocrite you may become a statesman.

OUTSIDE THE GATES.

Ominous news is brought back to America by investigators who have lately traveled widely in Europe, Russia and the near East, says the New York Herald. They find current among all peoples the belief that America is a fat and favored land, with an abundance of all the necessities and luxuries of which the Old World has been deprived during the war, and a land free from the heavy taxation and restrictions which harass the Eastern Hemisphere.

One obvious way out of their troubles has presented itself to millions of Europeans and Levantines. They will emigrate to America as soon as the path is open. All testimony available supports the belief that this country will be flooded with aliens just as soon as war's travel restrictions are off. A surprising movement from theBritish Isles to North America is reported, and they are welcome. Germans will come by the myriads as quickly as we will let them; and they are not welcome. From Italy, from the Balkans and the little countries of Eastern Europe there will flow such multitudes as to suggest a tidal wave of immigrants.

Russia's harried hordes turn easier eyes to America, while another interesting group of intending immigrants are straining at the leash in the Near East—Greeks, Armenians, Turks, Syrians and other assorted races of the Levant.

There seems evidence in trustworthy travellers' reports for the amazing statement that were means of travel available and the gates of the United States wide open there would within the next five years be twenty-five million immigrants to America.

Ten years after that what would America be?

The proposed international labor conference provided for in the covenant of the league of nations and which is scheduled to be held in Washington beginning October 29, may have to adjourn to a later date. It is not likely the United States will have disposed of the treaty by that time and moreover Congress is not likely to appropriate money for something that does not exist. Those delegates who come from Europe may have to return without accomplishing anything, unless they wish to go ahead thing, unless they wish to go ahead without the United States.

Americanizing aliens is the big job in front of us in this country. When the Senatorial committee was in Clairton last week it asked for a show of hands as to who were citizens in a large assembly of strikers. Three men raised their hands. Evidently there is need of making these aliens citizens of the United States.

The suggestion of a milk depot in Charleroi to combat the high price of the lacteal fluid is not a bad one. One man remarked in the Mail office that he could get all the milk delivered he wanted at 40 cents a gallon. At that price hecould sell less than 18 cents and make a profit.

If some people had a four-hour work day and every day off but one, they'd still produce statistics to prove that all the world's work could be accomplished, if everybody did an hour's labor each week.

When a woman admits timidly that her husband "sometimes is a little hard to get along with," you're safe in betting that he is very hard to get along with all the time.

"A lean horse for a long race," of course, but a fat horse has the satisfaction of knowing he doesn't have to race.

SAYS ROAD IS IN VERY BAD CONDITION

The highway leading into Fayette City from the north is criticised by the Fayette City Journal, which it says is the talk of all automobile drivers who travel that way. The Journal says the present condition of the road is a menace to machines and that many people avoid going that way on account of the rough usage their machine gets entering and leaving the town. The paper says that if it is negligence on the part of the State Highway Department machine owners should make emphatic protest and demand that repairs be made before winter sets in, and if it is up to the borough that council should get busy and make the necessary repairs.

Westminster's Wages.

The payment of M. P.'s has always been further a vexed question, and there are two [illegible] going on at present. One is to increase the [illegible] a year, which they now get (and which, by the way, they voted themselves), and the other is to decrease it—to nil, says London Answers. It is no new thing to pay members for their services. In olden times, however, it was paid by their local organizations, not out of public funds. A knight of the shire got 4s a day in Henry VIII's reign, and a citizen or burgher got 2s. A certain member for Harwich once sued his constituents for his wages and [illegible]'s claim was successful. Previous to the present arrangement of paying M. P.'s out of the treasury, they could claim that the common law still survived by which they were entitled to the salary fixed by custom.

Oldest of American Reviews.

The North American Review, the first of the influential publications of its kind in America, was founded over a century ago by William Tudor, who was born in Boston 140 years ago. He was educated at Harvard, and then entered commercial life. In 1805, with his brother Frederic, he visited the West Indies, where they were the first to introduce the ice trade in tropical countries. In 1815 he founded the North American Review, the oldest of American reviews, and was its editor for several years. Later he entered the diplomatic field, representing the United States as charge d'affaires at Rio de Janeiro and consul at Lima, Peru. He died in the Brazilian capital in 1830. He was the author of several volumes and was also the first to suggest the building of the Bunker Hill monument.

The word Yankee as a noun is defined as follows: "(1) A person born or living in New England: a word of doubtful origin, said by some to be the same as Scotch yankie and by others to be a form of Yengchees, a corruption of French Anglais by the Canadian Indians. Smollett used the term in 1752 in his 'Adventures of Lancelot Greaves,' p. 45: 'Proceed . . . without yawing like a Dutch yanky.' Here the reference may be to a Dutch sailor or sailing-vessel. The origin has not yet been definitely ascertained. (2) Hence, a citizen of the United States; a foreign (chiefly British, usage. (3) A northerner; especially, a federal soldier; so called in the south, particularly during the civil war."

Donkeys Wear the Trousers.

There is one spot in Europe where the women have not yet taken to imitating male attire, but the donkeys have. Visitors to La Rochelle usually take a trip across to the Ile de Rhe, which is about two miles from the mainland. Nothing in the island impresses them more than the donkeys. These animals, who do most of the draught work, invariably have their legs encased in trousers, fastened with cords over the withers and the hindquarters. The natural impression is that a carnival is in progress. But the donkeys are thus attired whenever they go to work, for the Ile de Rhe is infested with mosquitoes and a peculiar fly most obnoxious to animals.

Cure for Air-Sickness.

After reaching a certain height flying men suffer considerably from air-sickness. It is now suggested that nature has provided a remedy for this, for in the Cordilleras mountains of South America grow two herbs which instantly abate mountain sickness, nausea, and breathlessness. They are known as cha-cha-coma and polea-pixter, and grow as leafless, juicy shoots on a dwarf tree. The shoots are full of a hot aromatic water with a peppery flavor. Scientifically developed, it is possible that an alkaloid may be extracted from them which will enable men to climb to heights undreamt of.

Valuable Daughters.

A daughter is of considerably more value to the Kaffir than a son. Up to the age of ten a Kaffir girl is kept at home; then she has to earn her own living, either as a servant at a white lady's house, or by assisting her father in hoeing the mealie and corn patch. As soon as she reaches a marriageable age suitors arrive. Beauty is a small attraction in the eyes of the Kaffir lady-killer. The father bargains with the suitor. A very fair price for a good girl is eight oxen.

FEEL THEY HAVE DONE THEIR BIT

In the course of a little chat with Reed Miller, the popular tenor of the Columbia Stellar Quartet who are to be heard in Charleroi on October 24, 1919 a very interesting discovery was made that the splendid artist was a prominent participant in the Spanish-American War, and carrying with him many scars of battle. At the very out-break of the trouble with Spain, Mr. Miller enlisted as a cornet player in the band of the First South Carolina Regiment of Volunteers. He was a lusky lad when he went in and after a siege of illness which kept him in the hospital for six weeks he emerged with forty pounds off his weight, a case of flat feet and slightly impaired digestion. In spite of which he signed a paper stating that he was in perfect health, thus giving up his right to a pension.

During the recent World War, Norman Arnold, the first tenor of the Quartet sang in all the cantonments in this country. Although a married man he enlisted at the outbreak of the War, but was disqualified on account of heart-trouble.

Mr. Tom Daniel, the Basso of the Quartet, has a son who is at present serving in the U. S. Army in Panama, whom he hopes will soon receive his discharge.

The Baritone of the Quartet, Mr Andrea Sarto was one of the most prominent artists connecteed with the various Liberty Loan Drives, so the four members of the Quartet feel they have done their bit.

Mr. Thomas Griselle, the accompanist, served in France with an Infantry Company.

Good Way to Clean Pipe.

The following is one of the simplest methods of cleaning a tobacco pipe: Cut one-half inch from the end of an ordinary cork and fit it tightly into the bowl of the pipe. Then with a knife cut a hole through the cork wide enough to admit the nozzle of a water tap with a little pressure; turn on the water gently until the flow through the stem is sufficiently strong, and let it run until the pipe is cleaned.

Famous Appian Way.

The Appian way was the first great Roman road formally undertaken as a public work, it is said. It was begun in 312 B. C. by Appius Claudius Caecus. Today the Appian way forms one of the most notable memorials of antiquity in or near the Eternal city, bordered by tombs and the ruins of monumental buildings. Long stretches of the pavement remain perfect. The width of the Appian way was from 14 to 18 feet.

Short Courses in Wife-Training.

And then they are disappointed because the missionaries cannot supply the demand. To satisfy the waiting list of soldiers the missions plan to open short courses in wife-training.—World Outlook.

First Moving Picture.

The first real moving picture was produced by C. Francis Jenkins, a stenographer at the treasury department, Washington, and shown by him at Richmond, Ind., his home town, on June 6, 1894. The picture portrayed a butterfly costume dance performed by a vaudeville artist named Annabelle, who received $5 for her work.

Jerusalem is inclosed by a wall 38¾ feet in height with 34 towers, forming an irregular quadrangle of about two and a half miles in circumference. The old wall as rebuilt by Nehemiah about 445 B. NEGLECTING THAT COLD OR COUGH?

Why, when Dr. King's New Discovery so promptly checks it

IT'S natural you don't want to be careless and let that old cold or cough drag on or that new attack develop seriously. Not when you can get such a proved successful remedy as Dr. King's New Discovery.

Drank 7 Bottles of Whistle in 15 Minutes

It was down South. A soldier boy had been on parade for 3 hours. He was thirsty. He drank 7 bottles of WHISTLE in 15 minutes---and enjoyed the last bottle as much as the first.

Try it! Drink two, three, four bottles---drink it like water. Drink it from the bottle---through a straw. And the more you drink, the better you like it.

NUXATED IRON
A DRIVING FORCE
BEHIND KEEN SUCCESSFUL MEN AND WOMEN

When you think of the successful men and women you know—people who are doing things worth while—you will find that they possess force, vim and energy—the kind that simply brim over when the blood is filled with iron. Nuxated Iron by enriching the blood and creating new red blood cells, strengthens the nerves, rebuilds the weakened tissues and helps to instill renewed force and energy into the whole system. Three million people use it annually as a tonic, strength and blood-builder.

MAKE THIS TEST

See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired; next take two five-grain tablets of Nuxated Iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see how much you have gained. Numbers of nervous, run-down people who were ailing all the while have most astonishingly increased their strength and endurance simply by taking iron in the proper form.

Filipino Proverbs.

There is a certain dignity in many of the proverbs native to the Philippine islands. "A hero is braver for his wounds," the Filipinos say. "The quality of gold is known by rubbing it against a stone." "He who despises counsel is on the way to misfortune." "Whoever believes everything that is said has no mind of his own." In some there is gentle humor. "A sleeping shrimp is carried away by the current." "A fish is caught by the mouth." "If you sleep, brother, the crocodile will eat you up."

Funnel Made From Milk Bottle.

A funnel that has a wide range of application about the household, and especially in food-canning season, may be made by cutting the body of an ordinary milk bottle. The bottle is trimmed at the desired point by tying an alcohol-saturated cord around it and applying a match. The glass will break evenly at that point. After breaking, the edge is smoothed off on an emery wheel and the funnel is ready for use.

Something of an Imputation.

A well-known surgeon was performing an operation on a patient when a fire started at a warehouse across the road, illuminating the whole operating theater. Having finished, the surgeon turned to the nurse and said dryly: "I say, nurse, I notice the patient is coming to. I think you had better draw the blinds. I don't want him to think the operation hasn't been a success!"

Carnegie "Hero Fund."

In April, 1904, Andrew Carnegie established a hero fund of $5,000,000 for the benefit of the dependents of those losing their lives in heroic efforts to save others, or for the heroes themselves, surviving though injured. The endowment is known as the Carnegie hero fund and is placed in the hands of a committee composed of 21 persons, residents of Pittsburgh.

Famous French Ecclesiastic.

The Swan of Cambrai was Fenelon, archbishop of Cambrai, born in 1651 and died in 1715. Of him "The Catholic Encyclopedia" says: "With him disappeared one of the most illustrious members of the French episcopate, certainly one of the most attractive men of his age—one of the most attractive, brilliant and puzzling figures that the Catholic church has ever produced."

"Some" Talker.

Casting by Centrifugal Force.

A Brazilian engineer has invented a process for casting iron pipe by centrifugal force, which distributes the molten metal within revolving cylindrical molds that are water cooled.

Enormous Gas Waste.

Poor construction of pipe lines is the cause assigned for the loss in one year of natural gas valued at $9,000,000 in the states of Missouri and Kansas alone.

Daily Thought.

As a vessel is known by the sound, whether it be cracked or not, so men are proved by their speeches, whether they be wise or foolish.—Demosthenes.

"I can't see dose sociablists," said Uncle Eben. "When a man comes around talkin' dat red doctrine, right dar is where I gits color blind."

Leaves Superior to Berries.

In coffee-growing countries a surfusion of the leaves of the plant is held by many to be superior to that made from berries.

Optimistic Thought.

Persons with the least knowledge are apt to be the greatest talkers.

The Beneficent Bat.

The government of the United States has discovered that the bat, instead of being useless and worthless, as is generally thought, is really most valuable. He is the inveterate enemy of all insects that fly at night. In recent investigations bats shot in the evening after flying for 12 minutes were found with stomachs so gorged with mosquitoes, gnats and small flies that it was difficult to see how they could eat any more.

Australian Pearls.

The pearls that come from the coast of Australia are of many shapes and colors, and in the trade have names to distinguish them. Pearls under ten grains are sold by the ounce, above that by the grain. Color has a deal to do with the value. The white pearls go mostly to Europe and the yellow ones to India.

Meal From Bananas.

It has been proved that the produce from one acre of bananas will support a much greater number of people than a similar acre under any other crop, and the immense yield may be preserved for an indefinite period by drying the fruit and preparing meal from it.

Simply Had To.

A little girl was in the hospital following an operation for appendicitis. Her people lived out of the city, so she was lonely, and cried a great deal. Finally a nurse gave her a nickel not to cry. In a short time she called to the nurse: "Please take your nickel, I've just got to cry."

Biblical Lilies.

The "lilies of the field," so often mentioned in the Bible, are thought to be the red and purple, particularly the red anemones with black centers. These anemones grow among the thorn hedges in the East, which accounts for the saying, "lilies among thorns."

WHY DO WOMEN SUFFER

When There is Such a Remedy for Their Ills as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?

Mishawaka, Ind.—"I had such a severe female weakness that I could not do my work and I could not get anything to relieve me. A physician treated me, but it did no good. I had been in this condition for three months when I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound (tablet form) and it cured me. I keep house and am able to do my work now. I certainly praise your medicine."—Mrs. SUDA OLDFATHER, 543 West Second Street, Mishawaka, Ind.

Women who suffer from such ailments should not continue to drag around and do their work under such conditions, but profit by the experience of Mrs. Oldfather and thousands of others who have tried this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and found relief from such suffering. If complications exist write the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. Wetproof Steel Lined Shot Shells

MAKE your showery hunting days this Fall the good days for ducks they really ought to be, with the right shotshells—Remington UMC Smokeless "Arrow" or "Nitro Club" Wetproof Steel Lined "Speed Shells." No matter how much water may get to them, they will actually stay just as dry and serviceable as your Remington UMC Pump Gun or Autoloading Shotgun.

Those finest of shoal-water fowl, the big mallards—which you can seldom get within gunshot of when it is calm and fair—are then not so quick to take wing. But your shells must be right. Hunting has no worse luck than a water-soaked shell that has swelled and sticks in the gun at a critical moment—to say nothing of a "miss" caused by wilting of the turned-over end of the shell.

Remington UMC Smokeless "Arrow" and "Nitro Club" Wetproof Steel Lined "Speed Shells" are made waterproof by a wonderful process, invented for them and used exclusively in their manufacture.

It took three years to perfect this process. The result is a shell that will work and shoot right throughout an all-day downpour—keeps hard and smooth with no softening of the turned-over end or bulging of the top wad in the wettest coat pocket.

FATE OF THE RED TERROR

Bolshevism Will Most Probably Go the Way That Was Traveled by French Revolution.

It is a ten-to-one shot that Russian bolshevism will blow up and blow out as suddenly as French terrorism vanished a century and a quarter ago.

Up to date the Russian revolution travels precisely the old track laid down by the French revolution, writes "Girard" in the Philadelphia Press.

First Mirabeau and his solid type of revolutionists started the thing and put the skids under King Louis.

Then came such blood-letting terrorists as Danton, Marat and Robespierre, with their merciless guillotine working day and night beheading kings and queens and nobles.

Then appeared the master, Napoleon, who quickly made France one of the best ordered, best organized and most prosperous lands on earth.

Russia's Mirabeau phase passed with the peaceful and practically bloodless dethroning of the czar. Then followed the terrorists, Lenine and Trotzky.

France's reign of terror lasted only a couple of years.

It does not seem possible that among Russia's 180,000,000 people there is not a Bonaparte to catch the wild horses and put a bridle on them.

After it was over it seemed an incredibly easy thing to turn out King Louis and Czar Nicholas.

It will be just as easy for Russia to upset her present masters as to unseat the Romanoffs.

It is a poor sort of a revolution that can't revolve all the way round and keep the heels of both the czar and the bolsheviki off our neck.

HOW HE EARNED HIS CROSS

American Soldier of Chinese Parentage Talks Modestly of Deed of Great Bravery.

Corporal Sing Kee, color sergeant of the Three Hundred and Sixth infantry of the Seventy-seventh division, holds one may fairly believe, the distinction of being the only American soldier of Chinese descent who ever won a Croix de Guerre in France. The corporal is a modest warrior, not loquacious in the tongue of his fellow soldiers; and when asked by a reporter to tell how he won his cross he replied, "What did I do? I did, that's all." Others, however, are more explicit, and what Corporal Sing Kee really did was to carry messages through gas and shell fire. He was one of the twenty runners between commanders of advanced battalions at Mont Notre Dame, and at the end of the second day the corporal was the only one still remaining in action. Late in the afternoon he was gassed by the enemy, but managed to reach his destination. After that came the Croix de Guerre, honorably earned by the American soldier of Chinese parentage who just "did, that's all."—Christian Science Monitor.

Writes Treaty by Hand.

News dispatches from Paris reported the old tradition that treaties shall be written by hand survives, and that Joseph Carlo of the French ministry of foreign affairs, official calligraphist and painter, wrote the new peace treaty.

For 40 years the post of official illuminator in the French ministry of foreign affairs was held by M. Garapin, according to the Detroit News. He had one love in life—"the pen," to quote his own words, "this simple and marvelous instrument through which human thought is transcribed and forever preserved;" one hate—"the vulgar and unaesthetic typewriter, which prints without art pages that time will not respect."

Officials in charge of Iowa's circulating libraries were afraid to rent a set of books to the people in a certain Iowa mining district. They were afraid the books would not be cared for properly, and thought they could be placed where they would be used and appreciated more than in the mining town. Through the efforts of the home demonstration agent, however, one traveling library was sent to the community on trial. The demonstration agent interested the schoolboys, who made a case in which the books were placed. This small library led to much interest among the people of the town, and the demonstration agent reports that not a single book has been lost or destroyed.

A Great Objection.

"I don't take any stock in these 'ere patent medicines," asserted Lafe Lopp, a languid citizen of Waroverbehind. "They're an enemy to the human race. S'pose, now, you are getting along all right, unable to work b'cuz you're sick; you're pretty miserable, of course, but people sympathize with you and respect you. And then somebody persuades you to take a few bottles of So-and-So and you are cured and get your picture in the almanac. And forever afterward everybody wants to know why you don't go to work, dad-blame your ornery hide."—Country Gentleman.

France's War Expenditure.

In a speech before the chamber of deputies at Paris on March 12, Louis Klotz, minister of finance, gave some figures on France's war spendings. Among other items were $2,225,000,000 for pay of the troops. The total expenditure of the ministry of war was $23,880,000,000. The navy cost was $1,125,000,000.

Sacred Korean Mountains.

All Korean mountains are sacred to Koreans, who look on the many peaks of their land as guardians of the race. Paik-tu-san, the white mountain, is the most sacred of all. From it, says the legend, his first ancestors sprang. It [illegible] to be viewed from a distance and spoken of politely, lest the spirit of the mountain be offended and send ill luck on the household. Once a western the Korean native, a man [illegible] climbed the peak [illegible] The spirit was angry. [illegible] of the hat became three feet longer than before. It is next to impossible to get natives who will even enter the forest below the peak, as the supernatural boar is said to be under the control of the invisible mountain spirit. Those few who have achieved the summit of the famous white mountain say that the top is the crater of a long extinct volcano, and that the [illegible] is filled nearly to the brim with a lake wonderfully blue and pure.

Pretty, but Beautiful.

The [illegible] gardens of southern California, [illegible] unbroken tradition [illegible] the earliest days, says the Christian Science Monitor. The Spaniards themselves brought nothing fundamentally [illegible] though they doubtless influenced the builders unconsciously, as well as introducing the show places under their name. The most interesting result of architecture is no doubt that based on the American tradition brought into line with modern requirements without losing its spirit, being the result from the confessing point of view. The landscape seems to open its arms to receive such a background; the cactus and spiky Yucca, with their avalanches of milk-white bells, blend into a perfect unity with the slightest pink or buff tints of the adobe and the Navajo rugs, which, of course, should always be the foundation of the furnishings of such a place.

Duty and Opportunity.

Efficiency in work, to say nothing of equanimity of temper, depends very largely on the ability to take the right, that is to say, proportionate and timely, views of duty and opportunity. There are minute duties lying under the feet, so to speak, which must be microscopically examined: there are more detached obligations that can be discerned only by lifting up the eyes and lengthening their focus, while now and then the vision will be revealed of the vast sea, calling to the soul to launch its bark for the shores of the Far Away. Sydney Smith advises us, if we would be happy and normal in feeling, to take "short views and long views"—to confront the homely, wayside duty, and occasionally to glimpse the eternal vistas, but to skip the anxious days in between.

Magnolia Grandiflora.

Our common magnolia was well named, for it has the grandest flower of 35 species found in various parts of the world. One other large evergreen species, also native to this country, is M. glauca. About two or three dwarf evergreen species are known, the other 30 are deciduous and generally flower before the leaves appear. Magnolia macrophylla, as implied by its specific name, has the largest leaves of the group. These sometimes grow a foot wide and two feet long. It grows wild from Kentucky to Florida and west to Arkansas and Louisiana. The flowers are not showy or of nice color. The more common species grow best where water is found a few feet below the surface.—Los Angeles Times.

The maker of the home is a woman, and every woman makes a home. She may be a wife or not, a mother or not, a sister or not. But she is a daughter, and probably mother. At least in one relation she makes a home. The home is now beset by many foes, some open and some insidious. The dissipations of life, quite as much intellectual as moral, dry up its stream of affection. The absorptions of life consume its proper interests. Narrowness of vision and of work robs it of its treasure of imagination. Weariness of life is common, tasks exhaust its springs of strength. A college is needed to educate women to be the heads and the hearts of home.—Charles F. Thwing.

Chesterton's Socialism.

The late Cecil Chesterton wrote a history of the United States, which has been published since his death. In an introduction his brother, Gilbert Chesterton, said: "Cecil very early became a socialist and joined the Fabian society. But he afterward gave the explanation very characteristic for those who could understand it, that what he liked about the Fabian sort of socialism was its hardness. He meant intellectual hardness; the fact that the society avoided sentimentalism, and dealt in affirmations and not mere associations. He meant that upon the Fabian basis a socialist was bound to believe in socialism, but not in sandals, free love, boozbinding and immediate disarmament."

Skeleton in Card Deck.

In the Tarot deck of cards, used by the gypsies in telling fortunes and by many of the peoples of southern Europe for playing tarocchi, the thirteenth card bears a skeleton with a scythe, the symbol of death. The Tarot deck is very ancient, but it is more likely that death was associated with its thirteenth card because of the superstition than that the association [illegible].

ESTIMATING AGE OF EARTH

Geologists Have Differed Greatly as to the Time It Has Been in Existence.

As long ago as 1860 John Phillips the geologist estimated that the time required for the deposition of the stratified rocks lay between 35,000,000 and 90,000,000 years. This was probably the only estimate prior to Kelvin's epoch making paper of 1862. Since that time many estimates have been made, varying all the way from 15,000,000 years to 4,000,000,000 years. Kelvin was the first to discuss the age of the earth considered as a cooling body. In 1895 Clarence King introduced the important criterion of tidal stability and reached the conclusion that 24,000,000 represented the conditions. This result was adopted by Kelvin in 1897, and then he placed the limits as 20,000,000 and 40,000,000 years. Only Sir George Darwin has discussed the age of the earth from a purely astronomical point of view. From his theory of the earth moon system he derived an estimate of more than 56,000,000 years, which for a long time stood between groups of higher and lower figures. J. Joly was the first to base estimates of the age of the earth, in 1899, on the sodium contained in the ocean. Adopting the hypothesis that the sodium content of the ocean is derived at a constant rate from that of the rocks, he arrived at an age of 80,000,000 or 90,000,000 years, and increased this by 10,000,000 in 1900. In 1909 Mr. Sollas made a searching inquiry into this subject and placed the age of the ocean at between 80,000,000 and 150,000,000 years.

HAS EARNED ITS POPULARITY

Turkey Welcomed in Every Country Where the People Appreciate Good Things to Eat.

In every corner of the globe almost, at least where civilization has spread its epicurean tastes, may be found the domesticated turkey—not, however, of his own volition. Never would he, in his wild state, have sought to cross the stormy seas to find green fields and pastures new.

He is not so constructed. He is not bold or adventurous of disposition. On the contrary, he is timid and much afraid of things he does not understand, and when undisturbed is prone to let well enough alone and get along with his accustomed feeding grounds.

Again, as a flier the turkey is not a pronounced success. He flies ponderously, almost painfully, and with great effort and only when much frightened. His flight can be sustained for only a short distance, but what the wild turkey lacks as an aviator he fully makes up as a sprinter.

He can outrun a race horse, especially in his own native forest, where undergrowth and bushes seem but to add to his speed. But he could not have flown over the ocean even if he had had that unnatural desire.

He was taken over by the hand of man, first to Spain, then to other Mediterranean countries, to northern Europe, to the far East, until now he is well-nigh omnipresent. And this spreading out of his kind even unto the ends of the earth is all due to the entrancing qualities his meat takes on when properly baked or roasted.

Ruskin, when at death's door, enjoyed food well-nigh indigestible. During a visit to Matlock in 1871 he was seized with an attack of internal inflammation, which nearly carried him off. Mrs. Arthur Severn, who nursed him, records that at the crisis of his illness, "he hungered—to our horror—for a slice of cold roast beef. It was late at night, there was none in the hotel, and Albert Goodwin went off to get some, anywhere he could.

"At last, at an eating house in Matlock Bath, he discovered some, and came back triumphant with it, wrapped in paper. Mr. Ruskin enjoyed his late supper thoroughly. Though we anxiously waited till the morning for a result, it had done no harm, and to everybody's surprise, he recovered."

Two Sorts.

One man burns his house for the insurance. Another applies the torch to his home because he has been promised a nice long visit from the following relatives, to-wit: His second cousin, Mrs. Oliver Stallings-Spongeways, who possesses more double chins than the laws of physical prosody prescribe; her five children, all of whom have musical, elocutionary or histrionic talent, except the third one, who steals everything he can lay his hands on, and her old maid sister, who has been hurrying to the grave for 36 years from a mysterious malady, which makes it necessary for all her whims to be catered to promptly or she will have one of her spells and probably burst something.—Kansas City Star.

Care of Goldfish.

A globe of two or three goldfish with a bit of green seaweed makes a pretty centerpiece, and they are inexpensive and easily cared for. They should be placed at some distance from stove and register and not in the rays of the sun. They endure extremes of cold rather than heat. In the bottom of the globe place some small stones, a bit of sand, a little charcoal and a spray of cabomba, a fine water plant. Feed them a little at a time. Once in two weeks remove them to a pail of muddy water for an hour, clean the globe, replace the shells, stones, etc., and refill with clear, cold water.

Makes Big Demand on Horses.

The English Derby was run without a break from 1780 until 1914. In 1915 the Epsom stands and course were put to other even more important uses. A substitute Derby which can not count was run at Newmarket in 1915, 1916, 1917 and 1918 on a straight galloping course. The Derby course on Epsom downs is left handed, and consists of two straights and a turn—the historic Tattenham corner. It is often called an unfair course and a rogue's paradise. It may be the latter, but it refers to man rather than to horses. A horse to win the Derby must be possessed of the ability to start off quickly. He needs pace so as to be well placed at Tattenham corner, and he must be able to come down hill turning sharply all the time. And then he must possess stamina to finish that long straight. The horse that wins the Derby must possess all these qualities.

"Island" in the Air.

Three miles south of the Mesa Encantada in Mexico is a splendid specimen of fantastic erosion—an "island" in the air; a rock with overhanging sides nearly 400 feet high, 70 acres in area on the gently level top, indented with countless bays, notched with dizzy chasms. The greater part of the island overhangs the sea like a huge mushroom, and on the top stands a town which for artistic charm, ethnological interest and romantic history has no known peer. This little town of Acoma is one of the prehistoric Pueblo architecture. It was only with inconceivable labor this island town in the air was built. It was reached by a mere trail of toe holds up the stem of the "mushroom." The age of the island is not known, except that it was already old in 1540.

Pertaining to Cork.

Cork is the outer bark of an evergreen oak. It is not the true bark or skin of the tree through which the sap circulates, but a spongy layer of cellular tissue formed outside it. After a few years the outer covering falls off. In Spain and Portugal, the great cork-producing countries, the process is anticipated for the bark is run out every six or eight years, the trees continuing to yield good crops for 100 to 150 years. Cork for stoppers was used in Cato's time, 210 B. C. "Lighter than cork" is a comparison used by Horace. The peculiar cork stoppers for champagne bottles were invented by a Benedictine monk named Perugnon at the abbey of Hautvilliers, about A. D. 1670. The name cork is derived from quercus, the bark of a tree.

The Bells of St. Paul's.

The bells of St. Paul's cathedral, at London, are rung on Sundays, holy days and special occasions by twelve members of the Society of College Youths. To become a member of this society very severe tests have to be passed in campanology. The duty of chiming the bells for the weekday services falls upon one man, who, by passing the ropes through a series of pulleys and bringing them together, is enabled to chime six bells by himself. He chimes the bells for the 8 o'clock service, starting at 7:45 with two bells for ten minutes, then ringing one bell for five minutes. For the 10 o'clock and 4 o'clock services he chimes six bells for ten minutes, then one bell for five minutes.

Venezuela has passed a rigid ruling for the protection of the white heron, one of her most important sources of revenue. The egret or white heron produces the delicate plumes almost worth their weight in platinum. In the molting season—from July to November—the feathers may be collected. This does away with killing and trapping of the rare birds. Collectors of customs must be certain that the feathers passing through their hands for export have not been pulled from slaughtered or captured herons. The white heron haunts are found beside the waterways and lakes of two Venezuela states—Apure and Bolivar.

Origin of Drinking Pledges.

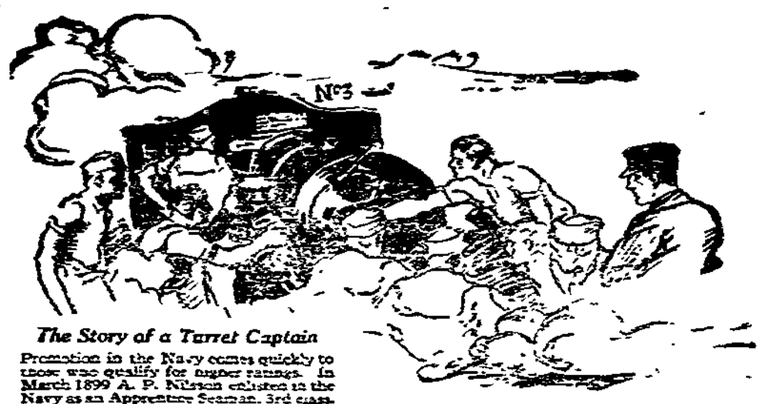
Pledging each other in wine was in reality nothing more than the survival of the once universal custom of parties drinking together in ratification of a bargain. It is in this sense that some Jewish and Russian couples drink wine at their betrothal ceremonies. The Hebrew, after drinking, dashes the vessel to the ground, in memory of the destruction of the Temple; whereas the Russian tramples the glass beneath his feet, with the pious wish: "May they thus fall under foot and be trodden to pieces who shall endeavor to sow dissension and discord between us."

Father's Taste.

Henry's father always prided himself on his taste in the selection of socks and ties, but it remained for his young son to take the conceit out of him. At a recent sale of neckwear he bought a new tie for the boy. On presenting it there was not as much enthusiasm displayed over the gift as he could have wished. When father left the room Henry turned to his mother and said: "Gee, mom, this tie looks to me like a piece of upholstery."

Naturally.

A mucilage factory in New Jersey recently burned down, throwing 400 people out of employment. This misfortune has cast a glu'em over the entire community.—Boston Transcript.



The Story of a Turret Captain

Promotion in the Navy comes quickly to those who qualify for higher ranks. In March 1899 A. P. Nilson enlisted in the Navy as an Apprentice Seaman, 3rd class. In April 1907 he was [illegible] Turret Captain. His pay today is $165.75 per month.

A man's life—among men!

Reel them off—"Rio", Gibraltar, Ceylon, Yokohama—all the great ports of the world—are they only places on the map to you—or are they ports where you've gone sailing in from the high seas with every eye aboard the ship admiringly on your big ship—your ship! Every ocean has a United States ship sailing to some port worth seeing.

If you've any call in you for a full life—join, and color all your years ahead with memories of things worth seeing—with knowledge worth having—with an inexhaustible fund of sea tales and adventures picked up ashore and afloat that will make you a welcome man in any company.

Work?—sure, and a man's work it is, among men.

Play?—well, rather, with a bunch of men who know how to play. These comrades of yours carry in their ears the sounds of great world cities, of booming guns, of churning seas—sounds you will share with them and that will never die away.

And when you come home, you'll face life ashore with level eyes—for Uncle Sam trains in self-reliance as well as self-respect. The Navy builds straight men—no molly-coddles.

Enlist for two years. Excellent opportunities for advancement. Four weeks' outings with pay each year. Shore leave to see interesting sights at ports visited. Men in training. Good food and first uniform outfit free. Pay begins the day you enlist. Get full information from your nearest recruiting station. If you do not know where the nearest recruiting station is, ask your Postmaster. He'll know.

Shove off!—Join the U. S. Navy

Result Truthfully May Be Said to Be the Greatest Waste in the World.

The recent invention which renders wireless transmission independent of atmospheric conditions and the discovery by which seven messages can be sent simultaneously over a telephone wire are striking instances of latent possibilities long unsuspected.

For thousands of years we did not even suspect the existence of electricity, and, being ignorant, derived no advantage from it.

If we had never heard music, we would say it was merely the dream of a simpleton to expect the most beautiful harmony of sounds from a combination of wood, intestines of a dead cat and hairs from the tail of a horse. But the violin, plus the man who knows how, accomplishes the wonderful result.

Active talent is the source of both quantity and quality of production, and that does not lie in capital but in men, and it usually is latent.

Every man has power and courage, but not all of them know it.

David had it, and knew it, and licked Goliath.

Foch was not plucked from the "four hundred."

And Lincoln came from a log cabin.

Not only once in a while, but very often, nature takes a particularly "raw" bit of material and shows up what is in it. It is a suggestion for use to do likewise with ourselves.

The greatest waste in the world is the unused brains.

TAKING HIM DOWN A PEG

Visitor's Comment on the Intelligence of His Host Verged on the Caustic.

Two old men, one a bachelor and the other a widower of many years' standing, have lived on [illegible] farms in the southern part of Washington county for many years. Not long ago one of them inherited a small amount of money and he immediately put it to use by building a new shack on his land.

When the house was completed he asked his old friend and neighbor to come over to spend the night. After supper they sat by the fire and smoked and talked, and finally, when conversation began to lag, the visitor turned to his host and said:

"You say this home is all done and paid for?"

"Yes," was the short reply.

"And you planned it all yourself and hired the carpenters and everything?" the guest insisted.

"Why, yes, of course, I did. What's the matter with you?"

"Oh, nuthin' much," yawned the visitor. "Only if I was smart enough to buy a house and build it and then'd ast folks to come to see it, I'll be d—n'd if I wouldn't know when it was time to say something about going to bed."—Indianapolis News.

Shark Salad Wins Favor.

Shark meat is delicate in flavor and texture, and sharks are plentiful in certain parts of Florida, but the fishermen do not catch them because they are not salable. The home demonstration agent of Monroe county Florida, decided last winter on an effort to establish in favor this fish now under the ban. At her request a fisherman caught one, but warned her that no one would eat it. Undismayed, she invited a large company of women to a home economics luncheon at which was served a fish salad. When all had tasted the salad she asked for a vote as to how many liked it and wanted the recipe. Without exception the women voted their hearty approval, and thus proved to themselves that their prejudice was without foundation.

The use of castor beans for making oil increased very rapidly in 1918. Great Britain imported from India from 3,500 to 4,000 tons per month. They were used in making a motor lubricating oil. An effort was made last year to plant large areas of the beans in the southern part of the United States and in the West Indies and Brazil. So far most of the beans have been raised in India from which some 1,720,000 gallons of oil were exported in 1916-17. This bean is a form of our common garden castor bean used as an ornamental.

Recent Spanish Inventions.

Recent inventions reported by Carl Bailey Hurst, American consul general at Barcelona, include a straw compound as a substitute for coal for locomotives and agricultural tractors, as it develops sufficient heat in thirty minutes, and the ashes make an excellent fertilizer. This is invented by Joaquin Esteran, the engineer. Another patent is by Thomas Roca of Las Palmas, on a process for the use of banana fibre for textiles, yarns and cords as a substitute for hemp.

Becomes His Mother's Uncle.

His own mother's uncle, his grandfather's brother and a great-uncle to his half-brother is the peculiar status of five-year-old Irving Tucker, who was adopted by his great-grandmother, Mrs. Johanna Freitag of Mount Vernon.

The boy's mother, Mrs. Mabel Hauser, agreed to the legal adoption. He has lived with his adopted mother since the death of his father, more than four years ago.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Disease an[illegible] Remedy.

To the antipod[illegible]s many years ago some idiot on rete[illegible]rn from his travels brought back a pre[illegible]tty flower—the lantana, I believe—an[illegible]d planted it in his front garden. It soon spread and means were devis[illegible]ed for its destruction. The Scotch t[illegible] thistle was the very thing and it was [illegible]imported, says a writer in the Ra[illegible]goon (India) Gazette. It certainly [illegible]looked the old nuisance out but becam[illegible]e a worse one. The thistle had to be g[illegible]r rid of somehow, and so a pair of [illegible]rabbits were introduced. They mult[illegible]iplied exceedingly and ate up the this[illegible]tle and everything else. Bunny had to [illegible]be dealt with and the English fox wa[illegible]s called in as an antidote. He failed [illegible]to reduce the rabbit appreciably and [illegible]now has a price of ten shillings on hi[illegible]s own head. No! Give me the devil I k[illegible]now in preference to the devil with wh[illegible]om I only have a nodding acquaintance[illegible].

Hermit's Famo[illegible]us Victory.

The story of Hermit[illegible], the property of Lord Chaplin, who [illegible]won the English Derby in 1867, would [illegible]be beyond belief if it were not true. [illegible]In 1864 Henry Chaplin, as he then [illegible]was, had been engaged to be ma[illegible]rried to Lady Florence Paget. She, h[illegible]owever, suddenly married that mad[illegible] plunger, Lord Hastings. Hermit was [illegible]a Derby favorite all through the wint[illegible]er of '66-'67 but broke a blood vessel in [illegible]the spring. He started at 66 to 1 again[illegible]st in the great race and won by a neck[illegible]. Lord Chaplin is stated to have won a [illegible]fortune by his victory, while his rival, [illegible]Lord Hastings, was ruined. Lord Ha[illegible]stings himself stated just before his d[illegible]eath that "Hermit fairly broke my hear[illegible]t but I did not show it, did I?"

City Furthest S[illegible]outh.

Punta Arenas is the southernmost city in the world. This title does not carry with it any of the warmth suggested in the word south, for Punta Arenas is nearer to the south pole than to the tropics. Overcoats and furs are in order in Punta Arenas all the year round—even in January and February, which are summer months down there. Following the inverted calendar of that part of the globe, July and August bring to Punta Arenas enough snow, wind and ice to leave no room for doubt that the South ceases to be warm before it reaches this latitude. The world's most southern city is on the strait of Magellan, in Chile, which makes it 860 miles further south than Cape Town, Africa's city nearest the pole.

Beginning of Great Racing Event.

The English Derby was instituted by the twelfth earl of Derby in 1780. A year earlier the same racing peer had started the Oaks, named after his place at Banstead downs—the valley of Lambert's Oaks. Lord Derby won his own race in 1787 with Sir Peter Teazle, named thus in honor of his wife, who was Miss Farren, and was acting as Lady Teazle in "The School for Scandal" when Lord Derby saw her for the first time. Little could Lord Derby have imagined that by the time of his grandson—the prime minister of the early part of Queen Victoria's reign—the Derby would be the occasion of a national festival.

The singing of the male in a tub is not encouraged by the females in many households. For some reason it irritates them, as the early crowing of the cock is obnoxious to some in the neighborhood. (Cock crowing did sad damage to the nerves of Herbert Spencer, and yet he is called a philosopher.) The quality of the vocal performance has nothing to do with it. Jones and Robinson may sing tunefully or in a manner to put the plumbing out of order, it matters not; Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Robinson cannot endure it. Has this habit of a husband ever been cited as "extreme cruelty" in divorce proceedings?

Different Circumstances.

Daughter, delightedly, to her father: "And did you really consent?" Father: "Consent? I had to! The man demanded your hand like a highwayman holding up a traveler! Consent? I believe, from the way he looked and acted, he would have knocked me down if I hadn't!" Daughter: "Oh, it can't be! You must have been dreaming! Why, when he proposed to me, he trembled so that he could scarcely speak, and he looked so haggard and weak I had to hurry up and say 'Yes' to keep him from fainting!"

Aircraft Controlled From Ground.

For some time experiments have been carried out in various countries with the object of controlling aircraft from the ground, and a French machine succeeded recently—on a prescribed course with certain specified detours—in covering a distance of 180 kilometers (about 110 miles), and in landing, when required, in a certain airdrome. A similar machine has been developed in the United States which, according to a recent statement, can travel without a pilot some 100 miles and land close to a designated post.

Greater Than Trafalgar.

Trafalgar was the last great fight of sailing vessels and a fitting close to a heroic era in the history of naval war, for it gave England the mastery of the seas. Long before this, however, there occurred the greatest event in the history of sailing vessels—the departure from Spain of the Santa Maria, with the Nina and the Pinta—the epoch-making fleet of Columbus.

OLD WELL STILL PRODUCING

Hole Drilled for Oil in Pico Canyon, California, Continues to Pour Forth Wealth.

The first known discovery of petroleum in California was made in 1865, by a Mexican hunter, who had followed a deer trail to the head of Pico canyon in Los Angeles county, near the present town of Newhall.

He came upon a seepage of sticky fluid that was unknown to him. Prompted by curiosity he collected a small quantity of it and took it to the mission settlement at San Fernando. There a Doctor Gelsich, who had formerly resided in Pennsylvania, identified it as petroleum and at once formed a company and staked out claims. In 1876 a shallow well was drilled at the head of Pico canyon, and is said to have produced at the time of drilling between 70 and 75 barrels of oil per day.

About this time D. G. Scofield formed what was known as the California Star Oil company. Later the Pacific Oil company was formed, and the two companies were operated under the same management—C. A. Henry being field superintendent, and Mr. Scofield, vice president and general manager.

The old well today is the property of the Standard Oil company of California, and stands as the first and oldest well in the state. It has never been a prominent factor in California's petroleum industry as it is known today, but while hundreds of wells since drilled haven't even a derrick left to mark their location, "No. 4," as it is known, is still alive and still producing.—Petroleum Record.

HISTORIC BERMUDAN CHURCH

St. Peter's Has Many Mementoes of Interest to Both Englishmen and Americans.

One of the most interesting churches to be found anywhere is old St. Peter's in Bermuda. It is in the told town of St. George's, and was built in 1713 on the same site as the first church, built in 1630. It is built of the native white limestone, as are all the buildings in the Bermudas, and it shows the marks of time. Everything in and about St. Peter's is intensely interesting. Its churchyard contains, among others, the grave of Hester Tucker, the "Nea" beloved of Thomas Moore, the poet, who was an official at St. George's at one time, and promptly fell in love with pretty Hester. Every square inch of the old church, inside, are covered with memorial tablets, many of them being the work of famous English sculptors. Not a few of the tablets perpetuate the memory of members of the English nobility, and it makes one realize what a scourge yellow fever and smallpox were before science got in its beneficent work, for allusions to smallpox and yellow fever being the cause of the deaths are very numerous. St. Peter's has a massive silver communion service presented by King William III of England, and a christening bason, the gift of Gov. William Browne of Salem, Mass., in 1738. The pieces presented by the king all have the insignia of the Order of the Garter.

"The Smiths will win the war" never appeared on a poster during the conflict. Food, airplanes, propaganda and other agencies all were offered at some time as the balance of power, but the claims of the Smith family were overlooked. They were ready for the fight, however, 51,000 strong. An army by themselves were the Smiths who joined the colors. They outdistanced all competitors for the first honors, for the Johnson family only sent 20,000 members to the conflict. The Jones boys numbered a mere 22,500, running even with their rivals the Greens. America's other prolific family, the Browns, sent 9,000 men to fight for Uncle Sam. The American melting pot also turned out 4,500 Cohens to help chase the Hun back of the Hindenburg line. In addition to these armies, there were enough bearers of military names to frighten an enemy that had studied American history. No less than 74 George Washingtons were in the ranks; two Ulysses S. Grants and five more without the middle initial, and 79 Robert E. Lees.—Bassett Blackley, in Leslie's.

She Fears Nobody.

Precocity, thou art indeed often the sauce of life. When the 12-year-old daughter of a negro laundress brought back a customer's laundry at 11 p. m. Saturday the customer, femininely curious, inquired: "Aren't you afraid to be out alone so late at night?" "Oh, no, I got a gun," responded the daughter of Africa, producing a 32-caliber, loaded revolver from the pocket of her coat and flourishing it about. "I never shot it yet," she continued unconcernedly to further frightened inquiries, "but I would, all right, if anybody bothered me." She was hastily ushered out.—Detroit Free Press.

Clemenceau Was Peeved.

When Rodin modeled the bust of M. Clemenceau, which now stands among those of other great Frenchmen in the senate chamber, his subject was not at all pleased with it. The big skull, projecting cheek bones, wrinkled eyes and drooping mustache were certainly not flattering. Scrutinizing it, the "Tiger" knit his brows and growled:

"Who is this Mongol?"

There are even those who say that was why M. Clemenceau did not favor a national funeral for Rodin, but "can such anger dwell in minds divine?"

American Institutions Are Not Crumbling== Go Back to Work.

This is no time to talk revolution. It is un-American to make a "direct drive" at American Industries and Institutions. Thousands of our boys went across the seas to stop the Hun hordes from destroying the world. Stop this movement that is here now to spread fear and starvation and strife in the land we love so dearly.

Get your job back. Be a man, faithful to your post of duty. Do your bit to help the government reduce the cost of living. Why strike when the President of the United States appealed to the leaders to hold off for an investigation.

Join the loyal workmen determined to make our industries go. The mill gates are open to welcome every man who aspires to be a good American. Go back to work.

Amerika je vyzvaná!

Toto nie je obvčajný strajk. Ba treba naň hľadeť; ako na diabolský krok niekoľkých radikálov, chcejúcich disorganisovať robotníctvo a tak siať revolúciu v tejto vlasti.

Či vy tomu neveríte? Prečítajte si týchto pár výťahov a brožúry "Syndicalist", napísanej a vydanej jedným z vodcov tohoto strajku:

"Syndikalista vidí v štáte len inštrument utláčania, tárajúceho administrátora industrie a navrhuje ho vyhnať z budúcej spoločnosti ľudskej."

"Syndikalistické hnutie je radikálne proti demokracii a štátu."

"Radikálne proti demokratismu a štátu." Či je to dosť jasné? Teda dobre bude, keď nahliadnete do situácie dobre. Toto nie je obyčajný strajk. Amerika je vyzvaná. Na toto nesmiete sa dívať nečinne. Nastala doba rozhodného činu. Tento jedovatý had radikalismu, ktorý chce zničiť americkú svobodu a vrútiť túto vlasť do chaosu, ktorý zapríčinil neopísateľnú biedu, hlad a smrť v Rusku, musí byť porazený.

Občania tejto vlasti nechcú mať revolúciu. My nechceme ani počuť o vláde, akou je ruská sovietska vláda. My chceme len americký život a svobodu pod americkou vládou.

Vy znáte, ako Nemci zkazili industrie Francie, Belgicka, Srbska, Ruska a iných európskych krajín počas vojny.

Nedopusťte, aby ste svojim činom pomáhali Nemecku vyhrať industriálnu vojnu proti Amerike teraz, keď je po vojne.

Držte Ameriku zamestnanou, prosperujúcou a americkou.

Choďte nazad do roboty.

(Polish)

Ameryka wezwana [illegible]

To nie jest zwykły strajk. Musimy nań się patrzyć i uważać takowy za i iście dyabelski zamach grupy radykałów, którzy chcą rozbić i desorganizować robotników i zaprowadzić rewolucyę w tym kraju.

Czy tu wątpisz w tem? Przeczytaj sobie te kilka wypisów z opublikowanych artykułów Syndykalistycznych pamfletów jednego z przewodniczących tego strajku:

"Syndykalizm widzi w rządzie tylko narzędzie opresyi, nieodpowiednią i niezaradną administracyę przemysłu i proponuje usunięcie takowego zupełnie ze społeczeństwa."

"Syndykalistyczny ruch jest radykalne przeciwdziałający demokracyi i rządowi."

"Radykalne przeciwieństwo demokracyi i rządowi" — Czy jestto dosyć wyraźnie określone. Musicie położenie to przyjąć tak czy owak.

Nie jest to zwykły strajk — Ameryka jest wezwana do walki. Bierne patrzenie na sprawę tą nie może być więcej tolerowane. Czas obecnie przyszedł na stanowczą działalność. — Żmija radykalizmu któraby zniweczyła Amerykańską wolność i pochłonęła kraj ten w chaos któryby sprowadził podobne nieobliczone cierpienia, głód i śmierć jak w Rosyi, musi być bezwarunkowo zniechęcona.

Obywatele tego kraju nie chcą rewolucyi. Nie chcą oni rządów Rosyjskich Sowietów. Chcą tylko Amerykańskiej wolności i swobodnego życia pod rządami Amerykańskimi.

Jest wam wiadomem jak Niemcy zburzyły przemysł i handel Francyi, Belgium, Serbii, Rosyi i innich krajów Europejskich podczas tej strasznej wojny.

Nie pozwólcie na to, aby jakikolwiek uczynek z waszej strony przyczynił się osiągnięciu przez Niemcy przodownictwa w przemyśle i handlu światowym, obecnie, gdy ta straszna wojna została zakończona.

Trzymajcie Amerykę zajętą, i w dobrobycie, i wskroś Amerikańska.

Powróćcie napowrót do Pracy.

АМ[illegible]ВЫЗВАНА.

Это не есть обыкновенная забастовка. На нее надо смотрѣть какъ чертовское усилие небольшой группы радикаловъ стремящихся разстроить рабочую силу и образовать революцию въ здѣшнемъ краѣ.

Вы въ этомъ сомнѣваетесь? Прочитайте ниже приведенныя выписки изъ Синдикалистическаго Журнала, написаныя однимъ изъ вождей забастовокъ:

"Синдикализъ видитъ въ Правительствѣ орудіе притѣсненія, не ловкаго администратора индустріи и предлагаетъ устранить его изъ будущаго общества".

"Синдикалистическое движеніе есть совсѣмъ противное демократіи и правительству."

"Совсѣмъ противно демократіи и правительству." Это довольно ясно. Вы находитесь въ положеніи четыреугольника. Это не есть обыкновенная забастовка. Америка получила вызовъ. Пассивное равнодушіе тутъ не на мѣстѣ. Теперь подошло время для окончательнаго агрессивнаго дѣйствія. Этотъ единый радикализмъ можетъ разстроить Американскую свободу и бросить край въ такой хаосъ, какъ въ Россіи и повлечь за собою несказанныя страданія, голодъ и смерть. До этого нельзя допустить здѣсь.

L'America viene sfidata!

Non é questo uno sciopero ordinario — Al contrario esso dovrebbe essere considerato come il diabolico tentativo di un piccolo gruppo di rrivoluzionarli per portare lo scompiglio nel campo del lavoro e accendere la rivoluzione in queste paese.

Ne avete qualche dubbio? Leggete i seguenti periodi estratti dagli scritti Sindacalisti di uno dei Capi di questo sciopero:

"Il Sindicalista considera lo Stato come uno strumento di oppressione, un amministratore delle industrie e dovrebbe percio' essere escluso dalla futura societá."

"Il movimento Sindacalista e radicalmente opposto alla Democrazia ed Stato."

"Radicalmente opposto alla Democrazia ed allo Stato. Non e questa espressione abbastanza chiara? Voi potrete anche affrontare la questione apertamente. Questo non é uno sciopero usuale. Questa é una sfida all'America. L'indifferenza pasiva non e piú possibile. E' giunto il tempo per cominciare una campagna aggressiva. Zuesta vipera del Radicalismo mira alla distruzione della libertá Americana e buttare la nazione nelle tenebre, causando sofferenze immaginabili, causando gli effetti giá avutisi in Russia, la fame e la morte. Per tal ragione questo movimento dovrá essere sconfitto.

Il popolo di questa Nazione non vuole la rivoluzione. Esso non vuole i Sovietti Russi. Esso vuole solo regime americano e liberta sotto la protezione del Governo [illegible]

Voi sapete come la Germania distrusse le industrie della Francia, del Belgio, della Serbia, della Russia e di altre nazioni europee durante la guerra.

Fate in modo che nessun vostro atto possa aiutare la Germania a vincere sull'America questa battaglia industriale, ora che la guerra e' finita.

Amerika ki van híva.

Ez nem közönséges sztrájk. Inkább kell ezt tekinteni a radikálisok egy kis csoportja ördögies kísérletének, melylyel akarják a munkásságot megzavarni és ebben az országban forradalmat előidézni.

Kétségbe vonja ezt? Olvassa el ezt a nehány kivonatot egy sztrájk vezető szyndikalisztikus irataiból.

"Szyndikalista látja az államban az elnyomás eszközet, ipar vezetésének a kontárkodását és próbálja azt jövő társadalomból kiköszöbölni."

"Szyndikalista mozgalom radikálisan ellenzi a demokraciát és az államot."

"Radikálisan ellenzi a demokraciát és az államot". Elég világos az? Legjobb ha az állapot szemébe néz egyenesen. Ez nem közönséges sztrájk. Amerika ki van híva. Türő nembánomság többé nem segit. A véglegeles hathatós cselekedetnek az ideje megékezett. A radikaliszmus ezen viperáját, mely megsemmisitené az amerikai szabadságot és az országot dobná zavarba, mely okozott kimondhatlan szenvedést, éhezést és halált Oroszorszában, tönkre kell tenni.

Ezen ország népe nem akar forrodalmat. Nem akar orosz Sovietet. Ő akar csak amerikai életet és szabadságot amerikai kormány alatt.

Önök tudják hogy Németország miként megbéntotta Franciaország, Szerbia, Oroszország és más európai országok iparát a háború alatt.

Ne engedjék, hogy hármely téttei segítsék Németországot megnyerni az ipar háborút Amerikából most, midőn vége van a háborúnak.

Tartsák Amerikát tevékenységben, jólétben és amerikainak.

Menjenek vissza a munkába.

Art of Literature.

L'art de bien dire is but a drawing-room accomplishment unless it is pressed into the service of the truth. The difficulty of literature is not to write, but to write what you mean; not to affect your reader, but to affect him precisely as you wish. This is commonly understood in the case of books or set orations; even in . . . writing an explicit letter, some difficulty is admitted by the world. But one thing you can never make Philistine natures understand; one thing, which yet lies on the surface, remains as unseizable to their wits as a high flight of metaphysics—namely, that the business of life is mainly carried on by means of this difficult art of literature, and according to a man's proficiency in that art shall be the freedom and the fullness of his intercourse with other men.—R. L. Stevenson.

Live on the Sunny Side.

There are two classes of people to be met almost daily; the people who live in the shadow and gloom, and those who live on the sunny side of the street. The shadowed ones are sometimes called pessimists, sometimes people of melancholy temperament; sometimes disagreeable people. Wherever they go their characteristic is this—their shadows always travel on before them. Most people will not bear their own burdens, but expose all their wounds to others. They are so busy looking down for pitfalls and sharp stones on which to step that they do not know that there are stars in the sky. These people live on the wrong side of the street, and yet, if they would only walk 20 feet to the other sidewalk, where they would feel the warmth of the sun, it would make all the difference to their feelings.

First Harvard-Yale Boat Race.

The annual Harvard-Yale boat race had its beginning in the desire of a young American railroad to advertise itself. A traffic manager conceived the idea that if Lake Winnipesaukee, on the line of the then Concord & Montreal railroad, were selected for a boat race between the two colleges, the event would advertise the railroad and be well worth encouraging, says Christian Science Monitor. Meeting the Yale oarsmen one day on the train, he suggested the race, and as a result Yale issued a challenge to Harvard, which Harvard accepted. The railroad company paid the expenses of the crews, and Harvard won the prize, a pair of black walnut sculls, more ornamental than useful, but serving to set in motion what has become a famous intercollegiate sport.

One of the most gifted poets, and at the same time not generally or popularly known, was James Mangan, whose profound knowledge of the languages, as well as his gift of poetic expression, can not help but impress even the most casual reader with this eccentric genius' power and versatility. He was an untiring worker, and all of his powers were kept constantly in play on account of his need of money to maintain not only his own immediate family, but to support an indigent father and mother. His overburdened mentality led him to resort to stimulants when his spirit was broken from overexertion, and after a life of many vicissitudes he died in a hospital June 20, 1849—some say from cholera, others, from starvation.

Dig Up Ancient Stone Coffin.

A stone coffin, containing a human skeleton was unearthed at Wellbank quarry, in Lochee, Scotland, not far from Dundee, by a number of workmen who were engaged cleaning away a quantity of loose soil. The discovery was reported to the authorities, and scientific examination is to be made to discover, if possible, at what period the coffin with its human remains was placed in the vicinity. There is no burying ground near Wellbank quarry, and as it has been in operation for many years without any trace of the ground having been previously disturbed or used for any purpose it is difficult to account for the discovery that has been made.

Mastodon and Elephant.

The mastodon differed from the elephant in having shorter legs, a lower and more flattened head, with smaller and simpler grinding teeth, lower crowned and rooted with three or four high, transverse, enamel-covered crests without cement. The tusks were smaller, but the mastodon had a single small tusk concealed in the lower jaw, a remnant left from an ancestral type which bore two sets of large tusks, one set in the upper and the other set in the lower jaw. He was some beast, this mastodon, who came to the beach at Long Branch to sniff the ocean breezes and enjoy the juicy foliage of the low-branched trees which grew close along the shore in those days.

Well Worthy of Monument.

There is at Vilvorde, near Brussels, a monument to William Tyndale, translator of the Bible. On its low flat base are inscriptions in English, French and Flemish. Tyndale was a native of Gloucester, Eng., but his sympathy with the new learning aroused suspicion, and he removed to London. Finding it, however, impossible to complete his translation of the New Testament and the Pentateuch, upon which his fame with posterity rests, he removed to Hamburg and later to Cologne, and hence became identified with the continent. He began his printing in 1525.

Gold Soaks Through Rock.

Not many years ago everyone believed in the "marine" theory of gold. In other words, gold was originally deposited in reefs by the action of sea water, and the fine, placer gold, which is the cause of all big "gold rushes," is simply gold reef washed into dust by weather and by water. The newer idea is that mineralizing solutions—carrying up gold from the depths—have risen along the planes of least resistance, and that the gold has thus been deposited in the reefs and rocks where it is found. That gold does soak through rock is proved beyond doubt. In certain old mines in Australia which were abandoned many years ago and have since been reopened, not only have the rock deposits been found to be richer than they were thirty or forty years ago, but also the old beams and timbers have been found to be impregnated with gold.

Humor in a Dictionary.

Johnson's dictionary, says the latest writer on the life of Mr. Boswell's "illustrious friend," often expressed his personal prejudices and point of view. He enjoyed having a "dig" at Scotland, and so when he defined "oats" he wrote, "a grain which in England is generally given to horses, but in Scotland supports the people." In defining "lexicographer," he looked humorously at himself, and set down "a maker of dictionaries, a harmless drudge;" and Grub street he described as "the name of a street in London, much inhabited by writers of small histories, dictionaries and temporary poems." And his definition of "network" as "anything reticulated or decussated at equal distances, with interstices between the intersections," became famous as a definition needing more definitions to define it.—Christian Science Monitor.

Lonely Britisher.

Living on an island belonging to the Paumotu archipelago, a French possession in mid-Pacific, many thousands of miles from the Australian continent, is Edward Davies, who claims the distinction of being the loneliest Britisher. There are only three other white men on the island, which is 40 miles long and 20 miles broad, but these are three Frenchmen. Hundreds of miles to the southward of New Zealand are the Macquarie islands, on one of which two men manipulate a wireless service to Australia. Their small habitation is the only one on the island, which has no trees or shrubs, natives, harbors, and very little sunshine, being bitterly cold and most desolate. Their only companions are penguins. It is the most southern abode in the world for a Briton.

"As regards the generality of women," says a well-known sculptor, "I notice a greater spirituality in the faces of my sitters when I compare them with the women who came to me before the war. They are interesting, the faces of women who have forgotten themselves in spending themselves for others. And, strangely enough, I have the impression that I see more quietly happy faces than I used to. In the eyes of many of the women I study in the streets and public places I trace sorrow and past grief, but not so often present unhappiness. It is as if, in the severing of a human tie they have gained some spiritual, some other worldly comfort."

Nagoya's Two Attractions.

The noted temple of old Nagoya in Japan is the unpretentious shelter for the statues of Buddha's 500 original followers. It is scarcely possible that the 500 elect sat for these stone portraits, but the variety of physiognomy is astonishing. In fact, the range of types and combinations of features is such that the keeper insists that careful scrutiny will surely reveal the visitor's own august countenance. The center of interest in the town itself is the great porcelain industry, where ten-cent-store cups, which no Japanese would own, are manufactured by thousands for unesthetic foreigners, and works of art are created by master craftsmen for the select few.

Nation of Drug Addicts.

Practically all of the natives of Peru are drug addicts. The coca plant from which cocaine is made has been cultivated by these natives since prehistoric times, its leaves being chewed to get the desired effect. It has been estimated there are at least 8,000,000 persons living in the central part of South America that are chewers of coca. Use of the leaf is said to enable them to withstand the effects of greater altitudes and to develop physical strength and endurance. By frequent resort to coca, moreover, the Indians can go for long periods without food, without any apparent disastrous effects.

Tale-Telling Tails.

There is only one insect which enjoys the luxury of a tail, and it is to be found in the northeast of Tasmania. This insect is a pale greenish-brown in color, and its body when full grown is just about the size of a sunflower-seed. In times of peace the tail—which is three-eighths to a quarter of an inch in length—lies placid and straight, but when on the warpath it is drawn up into an angry, vertical position. The mosquito is its favorite diet. Its domestic life is a villainous one, for when old enough to assert its independence it devours its parents and takes full possession of the parental web.

When the Alabama Went Down.

In 1864, on the nineteenth of June, the battle between the U. S. S. Kearsarge and the Confederate cruiser Alabama took place outside the harbor of Cherbourg, France. The Alabama had been fitted out at Liverpool by agents of the Confederate government for the purpose of destroying the merchant ships of the Federal government. For two years she sailed the seas under command of Captain Semmes, destroying commerce. In June of 1864 the Alabama was lying in the harbor of Cherbourg and the Kearsarge, which had been pursuing her for more than a year, arrived outside the harbor and waited beyond the three-mile limit from the fourteenth to the nineteenth. On Sunday, the nineteenth, the Alabama came out and after a battle lasting two hours the Confederate sank without surrendering.

Chinese Babies.

It is not at all uncommon for the dead bodies of Chinese infants to be cast away, instead of being buried. The charitable explanation is that this is done to save burial expenses. The true reason, however, is said to be the deeprooted superstitious belief among them that the death of a baby arises out of punishment to its soul for sins committed in a previous state of existence. It is an accursed creature, whose coffin no one will follow. It is, therefore, a common sight in China to see dying babies laid down by the roadside to breathe their last. The parents will not allow them to die in the house, the belief being that infants, after their death, become wicked spirits. To allow them to die under the parents' roof will bring nothing but evil upon the family.

Fortune Telling by Bones.

It is strange that in the Transvaal the belief in Kaffir doctors and their wizardry has not died out. Nearly every old Kaffir has always with him a bag of bones—knuckles and joints of animals. With these he pretends to be able to foretell the future. He throws the "dolos," as they are called, and then reads out the omens. Should a white man wish to confer with the oracle, he must throw the bones himself. Many white men firmly believe in the ability of the Kaffir doctor to cure them from sundry ills, and in Rhodesia there have been many cases where the Kaffir doctors have saved whites from the ravages of the terrible fevers that rage there, in addition to coping successfully with toothache and other ills.

A curious feature in the rhetoric of the oriental bard, is the employment of what may be called figures of impossibility—or the paradox. Their pages furnish copious and surprising examples of this. A man who follows vice instead of virtue, folly rather than wisdom, is one who painfully turns up the barren sand with a golden plow, to sow weeds! he mows a forest of lignum-vitae trees with a crystal scythe! he puts a jeweled vase on a sandalwood fire to cook a dish of husks or pebbles! he devastates a beautiful date garden to plant nettles there instead of palms! . . . "It is written in the sky, on the pages of the air, that good deeds shall be done to him who does good deeds to others."—William R. Alger.

Tree Godsend to Thirsty.

A plant that is said to be like the rock which Moses smote with his rod and caused water to gush forth is the "traveler's tree," so called because when its leaves are cut a quantity of pure, cold water is said to spurt out to quench the thirst of the wayfarer. The tree grows naturally only in Madagascar, and thrives only in the vicinity of water. The tree is now cultivated in some tropical countries for ornamental purposes. In its native habitat its leaves furnish the people with thatch and sides of their houses; the leaves are used also extensively for making a great variety of minor household articles, and the trunks, which are woody and durable in contact with the soil, are used for posts and for flooring in warehouses.

The Seven Seas.

"What are the 'seven seas?'" a subscriber asks, and adds: "I can find no explanation about them in cyclopedias or dictionaries." There is, indeed, a great paucity of information about this familiar expression, which is the title of one of Kipling's books. A note, however, in the Oxford English dictionary under "seven" reads: "The Seven Seas—the Arctic, Antarctic, North and South Pacific, North and South Atlantic and Indian oceans." Curiously, this dictionary does not mention the seven seas under the word "sea," but gives instead "the four seas—the seas bounding Great Britain on the four sides."—Outlook.

Too Good.

"There is such a thing as trying to do too much," said a certain senator recently. Very often we are overzealous and hand out too much of a good thing. Like the little girl who found her home lesson in arithmetic too much for her. So she asked her big brother to help her out. This he did, and handed the child the entire bunch of sums each neatly and correctly done. The child looked them over thoughtfully. 'What's wrong?' asked big brother in surprise. 'Nothing,' replied the child, 'only,' and she hesitated, 'only couldn't you make one or two mistakes, so teacher would be sure to know I did them?'"

Saving's Silly; See This.

"Rotten policy to save! Fatal to save! Find out when it's too late, don't want what you've been saving for—outgrown your impulses. Buried with your bank book and every one glad you're dead. No—no. Spend while you're young. Get a hold on all the friendship and all the love within reach—and then, why then, when you're old, at least memories will be yours as comforters."—"Our Wonderful Selves," by Roland Pertwee.

Origin of Specie.

Mrs. Wayup—"Whence did Mrs. de Style get her new hat?" Mrs. Blase—"That's a problem. She bought it with the money which her husband borrowed from her uncle, who had won it in a poker game from her brother, to whom she had loaned it shortly after her mother had taken it from her father's pockets and given it to her for a birthday present."

Old Belgian Newspaper.

The oldest newspaper in Belgium is the Gazette van Gent, which received the privilege of printing the Gendtsche Post Tydinghen on November 17, 1666, and which has existed almost continuously since the first number was printed on January 1, 1667. The oldest copy preserved is No. 67 of September 8, 1667.

Language That Will Live.

Language is the vehicle of thought; and the tongue which can most quickly and clearly put that thought across between buyer and seller, between thinker and inquirer, is the language that will prevail. Languages are alive because they have kept up with the march of thought and events; and those that have not are dead.

Haiti a Stricken Country.

Haiti's many revolutions have sadly interfered with the normal life of the people. On the trails of the country districts one passes a never-ending stream of women—mile after mile and nothing but the female of the species—most of them with baskets on their heads.

Value of Herbs in Cookery.

The old-fashioned kitchen garden was not considered complete without its small collection of "pot herbs"—sage, thyme, and other medicinal and savory herbs. French cooking is noted for its fine flavor, and this is largely because French cooks excel in the skillful use of herbs.

If Vermont Was Flat.

I met a Vermont Yankee lately, and the main thing he bragged about was the amount of maple sugar shipped from his town every spring. But he did not say that Vermont rolled out flat would be as big as Ohio.—E. W. Howe's Monthly.

The "Getaway" in Gotham.

A New York newspaper has received a number of letters on the best method of accomplishing a graceful "getaway" when making a call. One correspondent says he manages it by exclaiming suddenly: "Oh, can the piffle; I guess I gotta be goin'."

First American Bridge.

The first American suspension bridge was erected in 1801 by James Finley across Jacobs creek, Westmoreland county, Pennsylvania. It had a span of 70 feet and cost $6,000.

SHE SUFFERED WITH STOMACH TROUBLE

Plant Juice, the new herbal stomach remedy, puts thestomach in shape to properly digest the food; tones up and invigorates the whole system and fills you with new life and energy: eradicates malaria poisoning.

MRS. PAULINE DESANDER

stimulates the sluggish liver into action, corrects constipation and regulates the bowels: in fact. assists nature where assistance is needed.

The following signed statement from Mrs. Pauline Desander. who lives at No. 451½ Wertz alley, and has many friends in this city, will be of interest. She said:

"For 15 years I have been troubled with my stomach and I was able to digest very few things. I dreaded to sit down to the table because it caused me such pain to take anything into my stomach. I could not sleep at night. I was so nervous and would beall tired out in the morning In fact, I was all run down and had no ambition or energy. I had heard so much of Plant Juice nd read where people had been cured of the same complaint I had. so decided to try itfor myself. When I started to take it I knew that this was just the medicine that I had been looking for, as it relieved me at once. My stomach is now in fine condition and I am cured from the headaches from which I suffered and never felt better in my life"

Plant Juice is sold in Charleroi at Henning's Drug Store.

COAL OPERATIONS BOOM JEFFERSON

Jefferson, Greene county, is enjoying a boom which promises to soon make it one of the most important towns in the county. The extension of the Pennsylvania railroad from Mather is practically completed and the new plant of the Mather Collieries company is now in operation.

The latter is just across Ten Mile creek from Jefferson where a new town called Mather is rapidly assuming shape. A contract for the building of 75 more houses has been let and the work isbeing pushed rapidly. A company store and a large moving picture theatre are also being erected and still other buildings will go up in the near future. The school board of Morgan township just recently let thecontract for the erection of a modern school building which will cost more than $15,000. The Mather mine is now shipping about 30 cars of coal daily, which will be gradually increased.

Several very successful lot sales have been made in sub-divisions adjoining Jefferson, one including the site of the old fairgrounds. Good prices have been realized and buyers have been plentiful.

ATTEMPT TO BREAK PROVISIONS OF WILL

Alleging that Mary Day, late of California, was not of sound mind and memory at the time she made the paper purporting to be her last will and testament. Sarah Coyan. a sister and Mary Rose Wallace a granddaughter, have started proceedings to break the will The granddaughter. who is a minor, is represented by her father, Thomas J. Wallace. Mrs. Day died July 3, 1919, and is survived by two grandchildren. Alfred Eugene Day, who is executor and Mary Rose Wallace, one of the contestants.

Under the will offered for probate $500 is given to Mary Rose Wallace and the balance of the residuary estate to Alfred Eugene Day. Under a previous will, dated Oct. 19, 1918 it was directeed that the real estate be sold and proceeds divided between Mrs. Coyan. the sister and the two grandchildren, Alfred Eugene Day and Mary Rose Wallace. The plaintiffs declar that the last will was made under undue influence on the part of Cora Jane Day, who, it is averred. took advantage of the fact that Mary Day was debilitated physically and mentally

HEAVY SHIPMENTS TO CLAIRTON PLANT

The Carnegie Steel company received more than 400,000 tons of coal at its by-product plant at Clairton during the month of September, all of the shipments being made by water. The company has about 150,000 tons of coal. sufficient for about 20 days. stored near the plant should there be a strike of miners or a serious blockade at any time during the winter. The Carnegie line has been augmented with two ice breakers, which are in harbor at Braddock and Clairton and which will be able to keep an open channel It is expected the Carnegie line will be augmented within a short time by the addition of two new steamers. while the Clairton which is receiving some repairs to machinery will soon be in commission again.

FARMS ARE BEING RAIDED NEAR DONORA

Mrs John Harper, wife of a farmer who lives south of Donora, reports that marauders in large numbers have been raiding farms, gardens and chicken coops in the vicinity of Donora and in the Horseshoe district In one group that visited her farm she says were more than twenty men and boys with sacks who adopted "direct action" and loaded themselves down with edibles from the garden and chicken coop The farmers in the vicinity of Eldora are said to have decided to form a shotgun committee to check these depredations

You may believe you are important in your little community, but think how important the chief ant is in his little colony during h ill building time.

COUNTY FREE FROM POTATO DISEASE

Systematic search of potato patches and farms in the mining and industrial district of Allegheny, Washington, Fayette and Greene counties and part of Westmoreland county by agents of the State Department of Agriculture's plant industry bureau have failed to discover any signs of the potato wart which caused such havoc in the lower anthracite field. The search was made in co-operation with the Federal inspectors who visited tracts in West Virginia and Ohio, where it was feared that the wart had appeared, and it is believed that the pest has been localized in parts of Carbon, Luzerne and Schuylkill counties, and at four points in Cambria county.

In carrying out the investigation the state experts not only examined fields and crops, but used moving pictures, cards and posters to bring the dangers of the wart to the attention of the people. In the anthracite regions the pest appeared mainly among the foreigners and such settlements were visited in the bituminous distrut and interpreters employed to warn the growers of the hazards they ran in not following directions and also of the quarantine plans in event that the wart prevailed.
